

Proposal to change the number of stories in Storytelling

Submitted by Angelina Cicero, Homestead High School

I would like to propose that we alter the rules for storytelling so that students learn three stories, one for each round, and then have the freedom to choose their best story for performance in the power round.